PER CURIAM

Respondent, Philip, in this dissolution action has appealed from the trial court's property division award to the parties and award of $1,000 attorney fees to petitioner, Sharon. Sharon requests attorney fees on appeal.

The parties were married in 1964. They had no children. Sharon is 40 years old. She worked during the marriage and was earning $5.75 per hour at the time of trial. Philip is 45 years old and was earning $2,637 per month. During her lifetime, Philip's mother gave each party an interest in some farm land. Philip later inherited $18,000 and an additional interest in the farm land from his mother.

The trial court awarded Sharon a $40,000 property settlement, certain household goods, her life insurance, her IRA, and her bank accounts. The trial court awarded Philip the parties' house, the parties' interest in the Howard County land, the parties' Michigan timberland, the parties' three vehicles, certain household goods, his life insurance, his IRA, his bank accounts, and the parties' tax refund check.

On our de novo review of the record, we conclude, under the circumstances shown by the record, including the matter of farm tiling expenses, the trial court's division of property was fair and equitable. We also agree with the trial court's valuation of the various items of property including the Michigan timberland.

We do not disturb the trial court's award of $1,000 attorney fees for trial to Sharon. We order Philip to pay $500 to Sharon to apply upon her appellate attorney fees. Costs of appeal are taxed to Philip.

AFFIRMED.
